

SYLFF Doctoral Fellowships in Business

*Administered by the Center for International Business Education and Research (CIBER)
McCombs School of Business, University of Texas at Austin*

The objective of these awards, which are made possible by an endowment from the Sasakawa Young Leaders Fellowship Fund (SYLFF) of the Tokyo Foundation, is to support doctoral dissertation research on topics combining international and business perspectives. They will be made only to doctoral students who are currently enrolled in a graduate program at The University of Texas at Austin (UT-Austin), who have been admitted to candidacy, and whose approved dissertation research addresses, wholly or in significant part, the objective described above.

Process:

Using the SYLFF Doctoral Fellowship Application Form (pdf) available at <http://www.mcombs.utexas.edu/research/ciber/programsdoctoralstudents.asp> graduate advisers submit nominations to CIBER in the McCombs School. Applications will be reviewed by the UT-Austin SYLFF Steering Committee, with input from McCombs School Doctoral Advisory Committee.

Eligibility:

Applicants must be currently enrolled at UT-Austin and admitted to candidacy. Awards are based on major accomplishments since entering Graduate School, a well-defined program of research that combines international and business perspectives, a strong personal statement, and a letter of recommendation from the applicant's doctoral advisor.

Application Deadline: February 1 for the following academic year

Stipend:

$10,000. Generally, four such awards are available annually.

Address:

Center for International Business Education and Research (CIBER)
McCombs School of Business
CBA 3.204, Mail Stop B6000
(512) 471-1829

More Information:

David Platt, CIBER Director
david.platt@mcombs.utexas.edu