At the Red McCombs School of Business, we measure our success in many ways, and one very important measure is the quality of our faculty. To honor the retirement of Professor Jim Deitrick, we are raising $125,000 to establish the Jim Deitrick Endowed Scholarship for International Accounting Study.

This permanent endowment will spin off an award of approximately $6,250 each year to be given to an outstanding accounting student for study abroad. The Deitrick scholar will be a student with an outstanding academic record who exhibits financial need and passion for the University of Texas and for whom this would be the student’s first meaningful international experience.

We invite all those alumni whose knowledge and enjoyment of accounting got a huge boost from Jim Deitrick to pay it forward to future students with a meaningful donation to this scholarship endowment! And if you are a young alumnus who enjoyed an MPA study abroad experience, we particularly encourage you to pay it forward by contributing at one of the three giving levels listed below. To celebrate this effort, we hope you will join us for a reception in fall 2015 (date to be determined) when we can announce this honor and cheer his accomplishments.

“I participated in the MPA SIP to Buenos Aires, Argentina. Learning about the unique business culture of South American countries has helped me better understand global business strategies and broadened my outlook on the world. Studying abroad might be seen to some as a vacation, but I believe that it was one of the greatest learning experiences I have had while in college.”

–Trenton Cody, MPA ’16
