BA 324 Business Communication
Master Syllabus
Applies to All BA 324 Sections

Prerequisites
Required classes: English 603A, Rhetoric and Writing 306, 306Q, 309K, or Tutorial Course 603A, and credit or registration for BA 101H (or 102H), 101S, or 101T

Expected skills: Basic writing skills, including grammar and mechanics
Computer skills, including the ability to create PowerPoint presentations, communicate via email, and use the Internet

Primary Textbook
The primary required textbook for all BA 324 sections is Business Communication: Process & Product, 7th edition, by Mary Ellen Guffey and Dana Loewy. Individual lecturers may require additional texts and/or reading packets. The textbook is available in two versions: bound and loose leaf.

Mission Statement
The mission of BA 324 is to provide McCombs School of Business undergraduates with a conceptual framework and specific tools for communicating in complex environments and accomplishing strategic academic and professional business goals. This core course provides writing, oral, and collaborative skills necessary for future business courses, internships, and professional positions.

Course Objectives: Preparing Students for Business Environments
BA 324 focuses on writing, speaking, and interpersonal communication. Although differences in instructors’ presentation styles are a natural and valuable part of a multi-section course, all sections of BA 324 have the same objectives. These objectives specify that business students, at the conclusion of the course, should be able to

- Analyze communication situations and audiences to make choices about the most effective and efficient way to communicate and deliver messages
- Conduct research that includes the use of electronic library resources and the Internet; use the results of that research to complete written and oral reports
- Deliver effective business presentations in contexts that may require either extemporaneous or impromptu oral presentations
- Provide feedback, accept feedback, and use feedback to improve communication skills
- Write business documents that are grammatically correct and use appropriate business style
- Develop effective interpersonal communication skills
- Use communication technology appropriately and effectively

Core Communication Skills and Required Assignments
BA 324 focuses on a core set of communication skills and requires assignments that support students in their learning of these skills. Students can expect to work on this core set of skills in all sections of BA 324, although individual sections may add or substitute specific assignments that teach the same skills and fulfill the same course objectives. These communication skills and the types of assignments that teach those skills are described below.
Written Communication: Students write letters, memos, proposals, formal and informal reports, work plans, and progress reports.

Oral Communication: Oral presentations from 2-30 minutes long address informative, persuasive, and extemporaneous methods of delivery. Some oral presentations require the use of visual aids such as handouts, overhead transparencies, and presentation software such as PowerPoint.

Time Management: Assignments are varied, integrated, and overlapping, and students must focus on multiple issues, projects, and demands. Students must, therefore, take responsibility for planning and pacing their own work as well as developing time management skills.

Project Development: Groups of approximately four to six students develop projects, complete research, schedule meetings, write team papers and reports, and deliver a 20-30 minute oral presentation using visual aids. These projects build on and use the skills developed in other class assignments.

Evaluation/Feedback: Assignments that require students to learn and develop evaluation and feedback skills are included throughout the course. These assignments may involve editing one’s own writing and doing self-critiques, self-evaluations, or analyses of one’s own presentations, interpersonal communication, and other class activities. These assignments may also involve peer-editing as well as providing evaluations and critiques of the work of other class members.

Group Management: Students work on group projects to practice interpersonal skills by communicating with group members, other groups, and peers outside the group.

Meeting Management: As part of the projects, groups meet on a regular basis, develop meeting goals, make agendas, facilitate meetings, provide feedback, and submit meeting summaries.

Grading, Key Content Areas, and Required Assignments

Grades in BA 324 are based on a student’s work in three key content areas. These content areas reflect the mission of the course, the course objectives, and the core communication skills that students are expected to learn. Each of these content areas represents a fixed percentage of the course’s content. In two of these areas, there is a minimum number of specific assignments required for all sections of the course. Students should review the required assignments for their particular BA 324 section.
Three key content areas for BA 324:

Written Communication (50%)

Including a minimum of
- Eight 1- to 3-page assignments or exercises (e.g., memos, emails, letters, blogs, summaries, etc.).
- One business research report or proposal
- Agendas, work plans, PowerPoint slides, outlines, etc.

Oral Communication (35%)

Including a minimum of
- One group research presentation
- One interpersonal assignment

Professional Development (15%)

Including
- Exams (essay or multiple choice), quizzes, and worksheets
- Class participation
- Professional conduct
- Other assignments (written or oral) requiring analysis and integration of course concepts

BA 324: Writing Flag Designation (Substantial Writing Component Course)

Courses that carry a writing flag are intended to offer students significant opportunities to hone their writing skills as they progress through their core curricula and major coursework.

A writing flag course fulfills the following criteria:

- Requires students to write regularly—several times during the semester—and to complete writing projects that are substantial. It is only through the practice of writing that students learn to improve their writing.
- Is structured around the principle that good writing requires rewriting. Students must receive meaningful feedback from the instructor (or teaching assistant) so they can improve successive drafts.
- Includes writing assignments that constitute at least one-third of the final grade in the course. These assignments must be graded on writing quality as well as content.
- Provides an opportunity for students to read each other’s work and offer constructive criticism. Careful reading and analysis of the writing of others is a valuable part of the learning process.

Written assignments comprise 50% of the grade for this course. Of that 50%, half of the grade is based on the quality of your writing, and the other half is based on evidence of your understanding of the material and fulfillment of other criteria.
Revision/Rewrite Policy
One writing project, chosen at the instructor's discretion, will involve revision. "Rewriting" goes beyond the correction of grammar, mechanics, and usage. It typically involves the re-thinking of major arguments, organizational elements, perspectives, or stylistic choices in the project.

Instructor Communications
Instructors use mass email functions (e.g., Blackboard) to communicate with students. Students are responsible for checking their university email accounts regularly. Emails from instructors contain important information about the course.

Attendance/Punctuality Policy
Since BA 324 teaches both conceptual knowledge and skills, daily attendance and active participation in the class are required. Students should view class attendance as they would work attendance and communicate to their peers and instructor in an appropriate manner.

If your absences exceed three days for a MWF course or two days for a TTh course, your final grade is impacted by a minimum of a 1% deduction of your final grade per absence. Instructors reserve the right to fail students whose absences exceed eight MWF classes or five TTh classes.

A student who arrives 20 or more minutes after the beginning of class will be considered absent.

Please review carefully the additional attendance requirements specified by your instructor.

University Policies Relevant to BA 324 Students

Academic Integrity (Please read very carefully)
The responsibilities of both students and faculty with regard to scholastic dishonesty are described in detail in the Policy Statement on Scholastic Dishonesty for the McCombs School of Business, available online at http://www.mccombs.utexas.edu/udean/Scholastic_Responsibility.asp

One of the provisions of this statement reads as follows:

"The McCombs School of Business has no tolerance for acts of scholastic dishonesty. The responsibilities of both students and faculty with regard to scholastic dishonesty are described in detail in the Policy Statement on Scholastic Dishonesty for the McCombs School of Business. By teaching this course, I have agreed to observe all of the faculty responsibilities described in that document. By enrolling in this class, you have agreed to observe all of the student responsibilities described in that document. If the application of that Policy Statement to this class and its assignments is unclear in any way, it is your responsibility to ask me for clarification. Policy on Scholastic Dishonesty: Students who violate University rules on scholastic dishonesty are subject to disciplinary penalties, including the possibility of failure in the course and/or dismissal from the University. Since dishonesty harms the individual, all students, and the integrity of the University, policies on scholastic dishonesty will be strictly enforced. You should refer to the Student Judicial Services website (http://deanofsstudents.utexas.edu/sjs/) or the General Information Catalog to access the official University policies and procedures on scholastic dishonesty as well as further elaboration on what constitutes scholastic dishonesty."

BA 324 instructors will follow and enforce the provisions of the Policy Statement on Scholastic Dishonesty for the McCombs School of Business. You are responsible for reading, understanding and following the Policy Statement on Scholastic Dishonesty for the McCombs School of Business and the policies and procedures on scholastic dishonesty on the Student Judicial Services website. Included in these responsibilities is the responsibility for understanding what actions constitute scholastic dishonesty.

You may not use any resources, including, but not limited to books, computers, databases, etc. for out-of-class assignments if using such resources constitutes one or more acts of scholastic dishonesty, as defined in the General Information Catalog or as described in the Policy Statement on Scholastic Dishonesty for the McCombs School of Business. By way of example and not by limitation, you may not consult or submit work (in whole or in part) that has been completed by other students in this or previous years for the same or substantially the same assignment.

Students should be aware that all required writing assignments may be submitted through a software program called SafeAssign on Blackboard. The software is designed to help faculty and students organize and improve the writing process by encouraging original submissions and proper citation practices.

Class Websites and Student Privacy
Password-protected class sites are available for all accredited courses taught at the university. Syllabi, handouts, assignments, and other resources are types of information that may be available within these sites. Site activities may include exchanging emails, engaging in class discussions and chats, and exchanging files. In addition, class email rosters may be a component of the sites. Students who do not want their names included in these electronic class rosters must restrict their directory information in the Office of the Registrar, Main Building, Room 1. For more information go to http://www.utexas.edu/student/registrar/catalogs/gi02-03/app/appc09.html

Services for Students with Disabilities
The University of Texas at Austin provides upon request appropriate academic accommodations for qualified students with disabilities. For more information, contact the Office of the Dean of Students at 471-6259, 471-6441 TTY.

Religious Holidays
A student who is absent from a class or examination for the observance of a religious holy day may complete the work missed within a reasonable time after the absence, if proper notice has been given. Review this policy at http://www.utexas.edu/student/registrar/catalogs/gi03-04/eh4/eh4g.html#religion

Campus Safety
Please note the following recommendations regarding emergency evacuation from the Office of Campus Safety and Security, 512-471-5767, http://www.utexas.edu/safety/:

• Occupants of buildings on The University of Texas at Austin campus are required to evacuate buildings when a fire alarm is activated. Alarm activation or announcement requires exiting and assembling outside.
• Familiarize yourself with all exit doors of each classroom and building you may occupy.
• Remember that the nearest exit door may not be the one you used when entering the building.
• Students requiring assistance in evacuation should inform their instructor in writing during the first week of class.
• In the event of an evacuation, follow the instruction of faculty or class instructors.
• Do not re-enter a building unless given instructions by the following: Austin Fire Department, The University of Texas at Austin Police Department, or Fire Prevention Services office.
• Behavior Concerns Advice Line (BCAL): 512-232-5050

Business World Focus

BA 324 is designed to simulate the work environment in as many ways as possible. Many assignments will challenge your critical thinking, as well as your skill levels. Following all directives is important, just as it will be in the workplace. Some criteria will be written out in detail; some criteria will be delivered orally. This is representative of the way you will communicate in the business world.

BA 324 is an interactive class in which student involvement plays an important role in daily activities, and you will need to participate in all that is going on during class just as you should in a business meeting in the workplace. Your participation will enable you to learn material that will ultimately affect your understanding of course concepts and graded assignments.
Attendance

Regular and punctual class attendance is expected. Absences can affect instructor goodwill, just as missing work can cost you employer goodwill. Because BA 324 is such an interactive class with daily assignments, group work, and discussions during most class meetings, it will be difficult for you to miss class and maintain the highest average you may strive for.

If you miss more than one week of classes, which is two class days, one point will be deducted from your final overall average for each additional absence. Absences such as university-required events, medical issues, court appearances, or deaths in the family can be excused with relevant documentation. Instructors reserve the right to fail students whose absences exceed eight MWF classes or five TTh classes.

Attendance is required on the days of all oral presentations. The presentation skills students can learn as part of an audience are invaluable. One-half point will be deducted from your final overall average (including any other points for regular attendance days) for each day of unexcused absence during presentations. Please make particular note of these dates at the beginning of the semester. You will receive lower/no credit on your own presentation if you are late to class or do not attend class on your presentation date unless I have 24-hour notice and documentation of the absence. I will decide if you can be rescheduled—there is no guarantee.

When students arrive late or leave class early, it is an interruption that should be avoided. Excessive late arrival, which is more than three times, can affect your final overall grade if acceptable reasons are not offered. One-half point will be deducted from your overall final grade for unexplained, excessive late arrivals. It is your responsibility to sign immediately the late arrival sheet that is provided in order to confirm your attendance. Please do not inform me at a later time.

It is important that if you miss a class you get in touch with a classmate for notes or assignments. Advice: Make three or four friends and exchange phone numbers and/or e-mail addresses. I always offer extra help to any student who did not understand some aspect of a chapter or assignment after receiving the information.

Format of Written Business Documents

All graded written business-style documents for this class, except PowerPoint slides, must be single-spaced in 10-point Arial font or 11-point Times New Roman font, have one blank line between paragraphs, and use no tab indentions. Assignments must be printed in a manner representative of the professional workplace (see information on printers in course packet). Many students’ Microsoft Word programs are defaulted for different settings. I do not accept these settings, so they need to be changed! Professional style documents are an important non-verbal communication skill.

Grammar/Mechanics Application and Writing Assistance

An important communication skill is the correct use of grammar and spelling. You are responsible for knowing the traditional rules of grammar and any additional guidelines set forth in class, on Blackboard documents, and in the course packet. All graded documents are reviewed with attention to grammar and spelling. These items are important aspects of professional communication in the workplace. It is helpful to have a grammar rulebook to use and a “buddy” to proofread your work.

To be prepared for grammar and writing mechanic issues, I highly recommend you take advantage of the C.L.U.E. reviews in the Guffey and Loewy textbook. You can also refer to two documents on Blackboard found under “Documents.” One is called “Style Guide for General Business Writing,” and the other is called “The Bare Essentials.” The “Style Guide” is used for specific grading items in my course and should be reviewed every time you write a document in this class. "The Bare Essentials" is particularly helpful to those students who do not have a strong background in grammar/mechanics and need more extensive information.

Guffey and Loewy also include grammar guidelines in the Appendix, which I strongly urge you to use. It is important that you use all of these recommended resources during the semester to improve your grammar/mechanic skills. If you need help with your basic writing skills, you can use the UT Learning Center in Jester or the Undergraduate Writing Center in the Flawn Academic Center 211 (tell the UWC you are a BA 324 student). These advisors will NOT edit papers! They only give you writing mechanic guidelines and help. Online websites, such as the one at Purdue University, also provide resources: http://owl.english.purdue.edu/handouts/print/grammar/.

Preparation for Class

Reading textbook information prior to class is essential. It should be noted that lecture material is not necessarily intended to duplicate assigned readings, but rather to provide supplemental material. It will be difficult to achieve the highest score possible on assignments and tests if you did not prepare in advance. Please bring your Guffey and Loewy textbook and my course packet to each class meeting unless instructed otherwise. Questions for Tests 1 and 2 will be drawn only from the Guffey and Loewy textbook.

Professional Courtesy

Please turn off cell phones before entering the classroom. Never access your cell phone during class, such as to text a message. Your final grade will be dropped by two points if I see this occur.

Laptop use is not allowed during regular class meetings due to the distractions it can cause you or other students; however, when working on your group project toward the end of the semester, laptop use is acceptable.

Professional courtesy includes respecting others' opinions, working together in a spirit of cooperation, and listening actively to those who are speaking. Please avoid behaviors that make it difficult for us to accomplish our mutual objectives. You should notify your group members if you must miss a group meeting and provide your contributions to group efforts in advance of any absence.

Course Work Deadlines and Guidelines

Deadlines and guidelines for assignments are in the syllabus or will be discussed specifically in class. If you are unsure of anything that you read or hear, please ask me for clarification. Asking for feedback helps you to achieve good communication.

Submitting Papers

I strongly recommend that you show me a sample of your printer quality and get my signature approval before you turn in your first written document. Because the BA 324 goal is to simulate industry practice, I have high standards regarding printer quality, which is part of a non-verbal message. High-quality printers (laser or high-quality ink jet) must be used for all graded documents. There will be a 5- to 10-point deduction for poor quality print as real-world quality work is expected.

Document assignments should already have your name on them in the signature line; if this is not the case, however, type your name in the top left corner of the paper. All papers must be computer-generated in the acceptable format for that assignment (you will be told what is appropriate for each assignment). Do not justify the right margin—the right edge should be "jagged" for a more personalized look.
I recommend that you take care of all printing and copying of graded documents rather than use any professional copy center. You will know my guidelines whereas a copy center will not.

Late Work

Assignments are due no later than five minutes after the start of class on the due date. You will discover in the workplace that due dates are extremely important—learn this now! Most late assignments will be penalized 20% of the final score. There may be an occasional assignment which cannot be turned in late for credit (if you are ever unsure, please ask me). No assignments will be accepted after the class meeting following the due date. In addition, the course schedule does not allow flexibility in rescheduling oral presentations (see Attendance/Participation section). In-class assignments cannot be made up or turned in late. Delays due to typing or computer problems will not be excused. Work should be completed far enough in advance to anticipate any problems such as viruses or printer issues.

Grading Concerns

If you would like the grading of a paper to be reviewed, you may come to my office hours to discuss the assignment or give the paper to me in a folder with a memo stating what needs to be reviewed (please follow correct memo format) and documentation of correctness. Please bring prepared notes for discussion or typed notes attached to the memo. We will discuss your concerns, and I will keep the paper to re-grade it. When I review a paper, it is only fair that points can be deducted as well as added (additional errors may be found when I review the paper). Do not ask me to "give" you a higher grade—grades are earned and all students are treated equally.

When you visit my office, come prepared with specific questions regarding your paper. Research grade deductions first by reviewing the textbook, class notes, and resources you’ve been offered. You have one week (e.g., Tuesday to Tuesday) after the paper is returned to you to request a re-grade. Please do not bring papers over a week old to me at any time during the semester in an effort to receive more points. Absolutely no class time will be spent on grading questions. No phone calls or e-mails, please—stop by during my office hours. I do not edit papers before they are turned in to be graded; however, if you wish to discuss general content or specific concepts before an assignment is due, I am happy to do that.

You should record your own grades in some manner (e.g., next to the percentage list in this packet), as well as keep all graded papers and an electronic copy of your written assignments until you have your final course average. Without the original documents that have my handwritten score on them, you will not be able to argue your case if we disagree. Replacement of a lost assignment, even if you feel that I lost it, is your responsibility; therefore, please discuss any lost assignment with me immediately.

I will record grades on the Blackboard Grade Center (https://courses.utexas.edu); however, my handwritten hard copy of grades will be the official record, not Blackboard. It is not always possible for me to keep the grades current on Blackboard each week.

Additional Class Procedures

Purchase one large Blue Book with a minimum of 20 pages to be used for the Blue Book reading assignments from Communication Matters. Smaller books may require you to purchase a second one.

In this course it is okay to discuss the cases with other students or friends and have them comment on your rough draft or proofread your final copies. It is important to use spell check (many students have commented that grammar checkers are inferior—be careful!). An excellent idea to help with proofreading is for you or you and another person to read your papers out loud—this allows you to more quickly recognize mechanical, grammatical, and spelling errors! Strong proofreading is imperative in this class.
My comments on a paper reflect the problems that seem most serious according to what has been emphasized in your readings and during class discussions. I rarely mark everything that is “correctable” in a paper. Please do not take my comments as personal affronts to your writing. I try to view documents from the perspective of the audience and write my reactions to your content. I also add comments as an instructor from the viewpoint of your class instruction. All of the comments are intended to help you improve your writing so you can earn a higher grade on future assignments. Please meet with me if you don’t understand my comments.

Helpful Hints

I use e-mail addresses from Blackboard for both class and individual messages. Be sure to follow the newest guidelines from the university regarding your e-mail address. A returned message from me due to your incorrect e-mail address or a full mailbox does not constitute an excuse for your not receiving it. It is important to check your e-mail daily.

Follow instructions and guidelines carefully, and keep up with your reading. Use your textbook for help but not as an absolute model because I do not always agree with the textbook. You will receive additional information and guidelines during class.

Final Exam Information

The proposal assignment that you will work on toward the end of the semester (completed in groups) consists of a written document, an oral presentation, an agenda, and performance evaluation comments for your team members. The project will take about a month to complete and is professionally and academically challenging. The proposal encompasses real-world procedures and standards and is a test of the knowledge you learned during the semester. Critical thinking throughout the proposal is strongly emphasized. There will also be new information added during the course of the project. There is no final exam in my course due to the comprehensive nature of the proposal assignment.

Additional Grade Information for My Classes

It is important that you understand the standards required for each assignment. Please ask if you need clarification. Understanding and following the standards will help you to perform at a high level. Any assignment that earns a score such as “84.5-84.9” will be recorded at the next full point (85). Any score below this, such as “84.1-84.4,” will be recorded without the tenths (84). BA 324 instructors have a policy of not rounding up on the final grade.

Fairness, Respect, and Open Communication

I believe in being fair to all students and that includes the grades they receive. I follow the concept “what I do for one, I do for all.” I don’t give individual students extra points unless I give the same points to all students. Grades are assigned based on very specific guidelines that create an objective environment as is possible for all students.

My course should provide an open and respectful situation for all of us. If you have concerns regarding situations in class, please visit me in my office and let’s discuss the issues. I appreciate student suggestions that might improve the class. Because this is a communication course, please feel comfortable talking with me one on one and use my office hours to increase your learning opportunities in BA 324.

Let’s all work together to make this semester beneficial to everyone!
